

- Caroline Henthorne's chapter in the book, 'Lives With Autism' edited by Steve Mee discusses how to take an autistic person to church.

- Vanessa Bobb has been working with local churches to help them include autistic people - she has particular experience of working with black churches – <http://www.a2ndvoice.com/>

- Church of England churches in Lambeth are part of the diocese of Southwark - the disability lead for Southwark is vicar Tim Goode who has a couple of parishes near Croydon (Southwark diocese being huge) – http://www.southwark.anglican.org/downloads/dac/inclusion_policy.pdf

- Closer to home you might like to contact the dean for the South Lambeth area, David Stephenson is vicar at All Saints West Dulwich. His church has several learning disabled members from the local L'Arche community and he is keen to support churches who wish to be more inclusive – <http://all-saints.org.uk/>
